"I Like YOU, Santy!"

CHRISTMAS MEDITATION

Long years ago, good tidings came
Of Peace—Good-will—to Men—
In this glad hour, it comes the same,
To every heart that precious Name—
As hallowed—now—as then.
Let myriad souls as one—rejoice—
A legion Anthems raise—Acclaiming Him, with heart and voice,
Our faith—our Hope—our Life—
our Choice,
Let all that liveth—praise!

Yet shall it be a solemn hour—
The Christ-child's natal day!
Lest Mammon's dreadful war-clouds lower—Lest demons come—in fiendish power
To put our Christ away—
Great God! From this—our mortal ken—Drive every doubt today—
Let "Peace on Earth, Good-will to Men"
Be all-triumphant—Now—as Then—
In His Dear Name—we pray!

ANTICIPATION

The day long looked for through the year
Is getting close at hand;
I hope old Santa Claus will know
Each child throughout the land,
For it would be a sad, sad thing
Should he, perchance, forget
To visit every little one—
And cause a pained regret.

But Christmas is a time of cheer—
Let's turn our thoughts away
And think of happy songs and smiles
That make a happy day.
Let's hope that Santa brings to us
His gifts of dolls and toys,
As he has done so many times
To add to Christmas joys.
—Charles Frederick Wadsworth.

The First Christmas Tree

Many years ago—very many years ago—a small party of men landed from an open boat on a rocky coast. The men came from Palestine and the inhospitable shore was the shore of barbarian England.

The party was headed by one Joseph of Arimathea and he came to tell the people of England, for the first time, of Jesus, who died for men and women.

The natives would have nothing to do with them—would not listen, or go near them, or give them food. For days they traveled, chill and hungry, until, despairing, Joseph sank down. As he did so, he thrust his staff into the ground. To the amazement of the pilgrims, the stick began to bud; the buds turned into leaves and fragrant blooms unfolded before their astonished eyes.

"It is a sign from God!" said Joseph. "He bids us have courage. Let us settle here and preach about Jesus."

They built a rough house and chapel alongside the little tree and many years later that house was replaced with beautiful Glastonbury Abbey.

But the tree lived all through Joseph's life and long after, and it is said that it blossomed every Christmas Eve.

Such, friends, is the beautiful legend of the world's first Christmas tree. And that is why our little children's Christmas tree cannot be of bare branches, but must be green—blooming.

Blooming, as blooms the eternal love of the man of Galilee for all humanity.

BELIEVING our success is directly due to the principles for which we stand—The Advocate shall, in the future, as in the past, take the lead in all matters pertaining to civic improvement which will redound to the betterment of Mt. Sterling and Montgomery County.

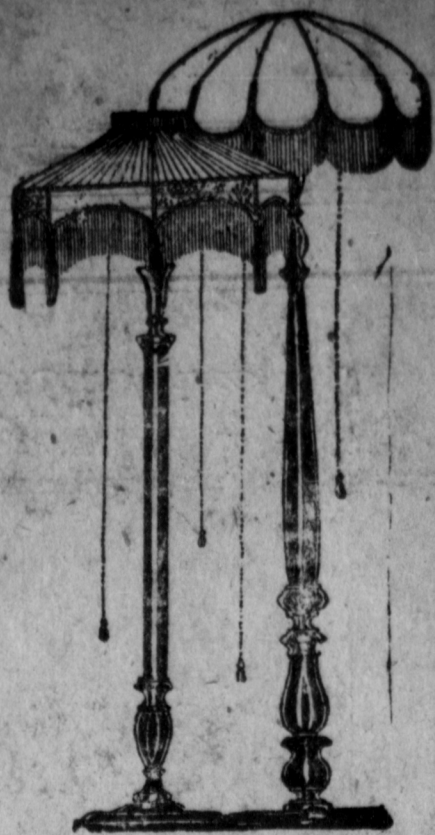

THE ADVOCATE has a subscription list of 2,700 and, we believe, barring duplication, is read by more people than all other newspapers in or entering this territory combined. Its advertising columns bring the merchant and the customer face to face.

KNOWING full well that the success of our business interests means the success of this paper, we shall ever strive for their advancement, and hereby pledge ourselves to, in every way possible, lend a helping hand from Montgomery County's leading newspaper to aid them in every way possible.

There is a new fad in Paris that may spread to this country. French automobile owners now are naming their cars, just as horses or ships at sea are named. Sometimes the name chosen for the car is fanciful or historic, but more frequently the name of some friend, for it would never do to be seen riding in a car named for some loved person. In the latter instance, the name may be changed overnight should a quarrel occur, for one with whom the owner has had some difference. The new fad is giving plenty of employment to name painters.

A girl may marry the man she loves, but she doesn't always love the man she marries.

When the traveler reached the hill top he waited for happiness, but his cries were drowned in thunder, and lightning blinded him, and he longed for the valley where violets dream for its song-sweet rivers and its peaceful shades. But his friends had prophesied his return, and he had said, "No, by thunder!" But he soon learned to outgrowl thunder, and was extremely unhappy because he couldn't beat the lightning in a running leap.

Apparently nobody wants a railroad strike, which is pretty good reason for believing that there will be none.

MICHIGAN TO THE FRONT IN FORESTRY CAMPAIGN

Michigan wants to know just what is what when it comes to increasing her forest supply and the newspapers of that state are behind the movement to start something. The American Forestry Association calls attention to the fact that the Detroit News has sent out a quiz sheet to ascertain just what people think should be done. The Grand Rapids Herald tells how a trade extension tour brought to the attention of Grand Rapids business men the miles of unproductive forest land in the state.

The St. Clair Republican says that we have heard about forests "since Hector was a pup" but are "we going to continue to crucify the press of the United States upon the cross of paper package goods and go back to the hammer and stone chisel for education?" Added to this the Sault Ste. Marie News says, "Mr. Pack speaks truly when he says that idle land in this country must be put to work and the quicker the voice of the people is heard in this connection the better for all concerned."

In quoting the New York Financial Chronicle the Tawas City Herald points out that "the gospel of forestry and reforestation is not a matter of times and seasons; it is for all times and all seasons."

Hearings in the Snell-McCormick forest policy bill are scheduled for the week of January 9. As the American Forestry Association says, demand action of your congressman and put the $1,000,000 acres of idle land suitable for growing trees to work.

Everybody is reconciled to the fact that women will wear what they choose. The only complaint is they don't choose enough of it, but after all that's their business.

American Legion News

A nation-wide scheme for the sale of articles made by sick and wounded soldiers through their own stores has been proposed to the American Legion Auxiliary by Mrs. Clarence R. Edwards, Boston, Mass., wife of the commander of the 26th division, A. E. F. The plan will be discussed at a meeting of auxiliary executives in Indianapolis January 18, 19 and 20. In the plan, the handicraft of the disabled would be sold in principal towns and cities in stores established and operated along lines of women's exchanges. Women dependents of the disabled also would there dispose of their home products. The plan would make the disabled self-supporting and not patronized by charity, its leaders declare.

American Education Week will be observed, with programs similar to those of December 4-10, according to the Americanism commission of the American Legion. The commission, with the National Educational Association, directed the initial movement.

Roused over the reports of relatives that a soldier's body had been so jammed into a cheap casket that it was with difficulty removed for proper burial, the American Legion of New Jersey is making a thorough investigation of such practices.

A hero yesterday—broke and jobless today, Sergeant Carl Naef, who made a sensational but unsuccessful attempt to capture Grover Bergdoll, draft evader, in Germany, has been taken in charge by the American Legion of New York. His only assets upon returning from Germany consisted of a police dog.

A resolution unanimously endorsing Hanford MacNider, national commander of the American Legion, has been adopted by the Des Moines, Iowa, Trades and Labor Assembly. "He has always been fair to the purposes that organized labor stands for, and we convey our hearty congratulations to the legion for securing him as commander," the resolution reads.

More than 3,000 veterans of the world war now suffering from tuberculosis are without proper care or hospitalization in the state of New York, according to William F. Deegan, commander of the New York department of the American Legion, who has just completed a survey through legion posts of the state.

The first American Legion building financed exclusively through the sale of municipal bonds is that now under construction at South Pasadena, Cal. The building, which is to be of the bungalow type, will stand in American Legion Park, a public park of South Pasadena.

There is not one jobless ex-service man in Louisiana, the American Legion Employment Bureau of that state having found work for every veteran seeking employment.

Maple Leaf Post, American Legion, Seattle, Wash., composed of British "Tommyes," has officially adopted Hanford MacNider, national commander of the legion, into the circle of "jolly fine chaps." Mr. MacNider recently visited the post and shook hands with 300 members.

U. S. army tanks of the type that waddled over the Hindenburg line and ex-soldiers who fought on the line have combined in Duluth, Minn., to furnish Christmas trees for children of the city. The American Legion is supplying jobless ex-service men to do the cutting. Tanks and trucks haul them to a central location where the legion is selling them, the proceeds going toward a merry Christmas for the unemployed and their dependents.

Employment projects ranging from land reclamation schemes to the working of a gold mine in Missouri have been submitted to the American Legion's national unemployment council. Milton D. Campbell, Cincinnati, Ohio, has been appointed as chairman of the council which will meet early in January at the legion's national headquarters, Indianapolis, to draft remedial measures for the winter.

Religious factions in American Legion posts have been severely condemned by Hanford MacNider, of Iowa, national commander of the organization. Speaking at Portland, Oregon, Mr. MacNider declared that religion "is between a man and his God," and that the person who would bring religious differences into the legion activities, "is not worthy of membership. This country was founded because of religious intolerance in others. The Protest-

The alleged statement of Victor J. Miller, president of the police commissioners of St. Louis, that 70 per cent of the present day criminals are ex-service men, has caused the American Legion of that city to request his dismissal from office.

SAY, BOYS, GIVE US LESS LATIN

One of the things we don't understand is why statesmen, who are elected to their jobs by the people, insist on using words at highly important public conferences which most of us don't readily understand.

Take that armament conference. The public, the mass of the people, down to the less educated of us, are millions of times more interested in that meeting, its deliberations and its results than are the men who are participating in it, no matter how great they are, or think they are. Every so often you hear Briand or Balfour or Hughes or some other fellow speak of "the last plenary session."

"Plenary" nothing! Plenary means "full, complete." Why not say the "last complete session?" Why use words that fuddle folks or drive 'em to a dictionary?

Then there is the word "agenda," which they love to roll around under their tongues at the conference. No doubt it is a Latin word—probably a derivative of the word "ago, to treat, to discuss"—but there isn't one of us fifty everyday folks that numbers Latins among our accomplishments.

If diplomats responsible to peoples must have a lingo of their own, let 'em speak it among themselves in their secret sessions, of which you may be sure there are plenty at Washington nowadays, notwithstanding the American government's efforts at publicity.

From all accounts the politicians in Washington are beginning to realize that the country is growing tired of standing the patter of a standpat congress.

PARENTS AS EDUCATORS

Literature must be made a part of children's lives, by being associated with their real interests. Then it will "enter their souls with the music of the game," and the love of books that we, as parents, helped to instill will abide. Concrete plans for the early study of literature should be worked out in the home. They should be such as will appeal to a child's constructive and play activities, and at the same time quicken his imagination and cultivate his love for literature.

Building a children's library is important. A child must own, see and handle good books. Let him have a shelf or a low bookcase that is all his own. Let the library grow slowly. Prepare carefully for the addition of each new book-treasure so that its arrival shall be preceded by a period of intelligent and joyful anticipation. Relatives and friends usually provide enough surprises. Deal chiefly with the large, simple, permanent masterpieces of literature, because neither you, nor the children have time for much else. Children are the busiest people in the world and next to them come the mothers. As the years go on, a child's bookcase may well contain Mother Goose, Aesop, Bible stories, fairy and folk tales and nature myths. Later will come stories of adventure such as the Iliad, Odyssey and King Arthur. By this time the child will be able to help choose his own heroes of chivalry and romance, of science and discovery. Poetry should have a very honored place from the beginning. A child of five can appreciate Robert Louis Stevenson and Eugene Field.

Kate Greenaway and a host of successors have devoted artistic genius to illustrating children's books, making them a joy to young and old. It is probable that in the case of most children of today their first interest and joy in books is associated with beautiful colored plates. Baby sister, just two, adores them and expresses her appreciation with smiles, shouts and clapping of hands. When she points to the mantel self and clamors "Goo!" "Goo!" (I want my Mother Goose) one feels that her career of literary appreciation is begun through the attraction of the pictures.

I should rather purchase only two or three children's books a year and have them illustrated by some of our best children's artists than to fill a book-shelf with a dozen cheap books, whose crude and gaudy illustrations cannot help the child to fine appreciation.

Among our treasures of illustrated books we count a Jessie Wilcox Smith "Mother Goose," and postcard "illustrations in color of the same, by Willebeek Le Maire. We own an Aesop illustrated by Arthur Rackham, and also one by Milo Winter. Kate Greenaway, Walter Crane, Randolph Caldecott, E. Boyd Smith, William Heath Robinson, N. C. Wyeth and Maxfield Parrish, are also names to conjure with in our household, and we hope to welcome several others. Of course, no one would want to own an "Alice in Wonderland" without the original Tenniel pictures, and what would Lear's "Nonsense Book" be without his own illustrations?

Frederick R. Marvin, in his "Excursions of a Booklover," says this: "Blessed is the man who lives in holy fellowship with great and noble books. His solitude is peopled with heavenly companionship. The highest delight possible to man is his. Before him open the Gates of Paradise." To parents is given the supreme privilege of leading little children into a realization of this beatitude of literature.

FARM AND HOME NEWS FROM OVER KENTUCKY

Carroll county farmers are continuing their efforts to eliminate the scrub breeding animals from their flocks and herds of the county, a report from County Agent G. C. Rountt states. Eight additional farmers were recently enrolled in the better sires and better stock movement. They will use nothing but purebred animals in all their breeding work.

Members of the Chapel Hill community club of Crittenden county, co-operating with County Agent J. R. Spencer, intend to devote considerable attention the coming year to improving their dairy herds. Three members of the club will keep records on their cows to demonstrate how the low producers and boarders can be eliminated.

In order to bring out the important factors in feeding beef cattle in that section of the state, four Jefferson county farmers who are co-operating with County Agent F. E. Merriman and the extension division of the College of Agriculture will conduct demonstrations on this phase of farming during the coming winter. The work will be carried on by John Lannert, Erward C. Tyler, J. W. Pope and Ben Williams.

Hopkins county farmers are giving increased attention to the protection of their fields during the winter with the result that many fields were planted with cover crops during the past fall, a report from the county agent states. Rye was one of the principal crops used for this purpose, local merchants and seed dealers reporting a 27 per cent increase in the sale of rye seed over that of the previous year.

Lyman Threlkeld, a Crittenden county farmer, has started a demonstration on his home orchard which is expected to answer many important questions in regard to the management of similar orchards in the county, according to a report of County Agent Spencer. He will co-operate with the county agent in spraying, pruning and caring for the orchard by approved methods.

COTTONSEED MEAL HAS PLACE IN BEEF RATION

Farmers who expect to finish cattle for the market in the dry lot this winter by feeding a ration composed mainly of silage and corn will get the cheapest gains by adding cottonseed meal to the feed, according to Wayland Rhoads, beef cattle extension specialist at the College of Agriculture. This will be true in spite of the fact that cottonseed meal is high priced at the present time. This problem in beef production together with several others, are answered rather definitely in results obtained last year by 84 Kentucky farmers who co-operated with the extension division of the college in conducting demonstrations to show the best methods of feeding cattle, according to Mr. Rhoads.

"If clover hay is fed in addition to silage and corn, an average of two pounds of meal for every 1,000 pounds of live weight will give cheaper and better gains as well as a higher finish. If no clover hay is used in the ration then an average feed of three and one-half pounds of meal to 1,000 pounds of live weight is better. On the other hand, if only corn and clover hay are used in finishing the steers, cottonseed meal will not produce profitable results during the coming cattle feeding season.

Steers on a feed of cottonseed meal and cover hay need only one-half as much meal as they would if clover hay were left out of the ration since four pounds of clover hay will replace one pound of cottonseed meal.

"Corn should occupy an important place in finishing steers during the coming winter in view of the fact that it will be extremely cheap. At 50 cents a bushel, it will be selling for $16.80 a ton shelled or $14.02 a ton on the ear. This makes one of the cheapest feeds which can be used for any class of livestock."

Many farm homes without running water would have it if the men realized the need.--Miss Marguerite Whittemore, state leader of home demonstration agents, College of Agriculture.

If Luther Burbank were to develop a hen that laid eggs marked down to 10 cents a dozen, there is no doubt he would become one of the country's immortals.

CHRISTMAS SEASON OF 1921

It had been in our mind to give the history of this joy season known as Christmas or Yuletide, from whence came this joy season and from which came the Christmas Box, its uses, its benefits and its blessings; the Christmas Carol, in what connection used and the modern appliance in music and song during Yuletide; the Christmas Rose, that flower that gives its bloom and fragrance in the month of December and is more commonly known in botany as Hellebore. Then we were wont to consider both the ancient and modern Santa, the chimney and keyhole myth, but our thoughts were derailed when our ingenious, wideawake and esteemed fellowcitizen, Mr. Marvin Gay, conceived the local idea of a Santa Claus Day, and it is to him and his associates that we give the right of way. Business man as Mr. Gay is, his first thought was to bring the merchant and his trade together. It is the children that leadeth and they their fathers and mothers. That Santa Claus would be in Mt. Sterling, that he would distribute gifts to as many children as would come was thoroughly advertised (that advertising pays was demonstrated) and from every quarter the children and grown up people as well came out and the day was the real Yuletide in figure, a joy day, a business day and one that will be long remembered. It was well worth while. All praise to the promoter, Mr. Marvin Gay, and those aids that made Santa Claus Day the success it was.

IT'S A DISGRACE

To go through life a failure when you possess success qualities.
To be anything less than a real man or a real woman.
To fail to do your best and look your best.
To have only half tried to make good.
To put into work you are paid to do half-hearted effort; to perform it carelessly or with indifference.
To do those things that are not morally honest or honorable, even though you act within the law.
To go about with a scowl on your face, when a smile can do so much good.
To be a pessimist when there is so much that is promising and good in the world.

To be grasping and greedy, always looking out for yourself, trying to get every possible advantage for yourself, and never thinking of the man at the other end of the bargain.

We would that the reader would study these paragraphs and make a text of each one. The life could thus be improved and the ease of conscience would also be worth while.

A HOME-MADE PRODUCT

We wish to call our readers' attention to the front page of this issue. The plates for this work were all made in our own stereotyping department and the work done on our own presses by our regular employees. To be in a position to make such plates and execute such work has been made possible by the liberal patronage extended us during the past which has put us in shape to add such stereotyping equipment as to make cuts of almost any character desired for use by our advertisers. Practically all illustrations used by The Advocate are made right here in this office which is strictly another Advocate feature.

To our many friends who have made such rapid strides possible we desire to take this means of extending our heartiest thanks and very best wishes for a Merry Christmas.

GOOD TIME COMING

Because Christmas Day comes on Sunday and the legal holiday will be on Monday, December 26, we will issue only one paper next week in order to give our employees a full holiday. The issue will appear on Wednesday, December 28.

Democrats Will Not Serve Out Terms

President Harding has abandoned his policy of allowing federal officers of opposite political belief to serve out their terms before replacing them with Republicans, notwithstanding that such a policy was faithfully pursued by former President Wilson, it is being charged by Democrats at Washington. Until recently the president has been lenient toward Democrats still holding government posts, but within the last ten days, according to the minority leaders in congress, there have been three "high-handed attempts" to oust Democratic officeholders.

The first of the three events thus described concerns the case of John A. Thornton, postmaster at Philadelphia. Although no charges had been made against him, Mr. Thornton, much to his surprise and that of his friends, received a request for his resignation. He was summoned to a conference with officials of the postoffice department at Washington but declined to submit the desired resignation. Following this an investigation was made and Thornton was practically dismissed, it being charged that he had not given the proper supervision to postal service. Thornton and his Democratic friends are charging that he was "railroaded" out of office. This is only one of many instances cited.

Elope to Lexington

Richard Eubank and Miss Mary Katherine Moss surprised their many friends yesterday morning by eloping to Lexington, where they were united in marriage by Rev. Mark Collis, of the Christian church of that city. They were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Eubank, Sr., Philip Greene, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Botts and Halley Eubank. After the ceremony they left for Louisville and after a short bridal trip will be at home to their friends in the county. The bride is the charming and attractive daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Moss and quite a favorite with all who bear her acquaintance. For some time she has been a valued employe of the Kentucky Utilities Co. For the wedding ceremony she wore a stylish brown tailored suit with a lovely pattern hat to match. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Eubank, Sr., and is an industrious and popular young farmer with a host of friends.

For some time the couple had been quite devoted, but the wedding coming at this time was a decided surprise to the numerous acquaintances of this popular young couple, who join us in extending best wishes and heartiest congratulations.

Still Captured in Bath County

Prohibition Officer Robert Duff, together with two deputies, raided a still in Bath county Tuesday night and captured a 55-gallon still, 14 barrels of mash and a lot of supplies and paraphernalia, which they destroyed. A run had just been made and several gallons of whisky, which had been placed in jars, was brought into town by the officers.

Five men, Frank Ingram, Charles Epperson, Carl Schultz, Talt Embry and Frank Hoffman, who were at the still were placed under arrest and brought to this city, where they were tried before U. S. Commissioner W. H. Wood yesterday. Frank Ingram pleaded guilty to being half owner of the still, his partner, Kelly Harris, escaping from the officers during the raid. Schultz, Epperson, Hoffman and Embry were released, it being proved that they had no connection with the operation of the still. Ingram was held under $1,000 bond to the U. S. court.

Silas Reffit, of Salt Lick, was also tried before Commissioner Wood yesterday on a charge of having whisky in his possession. He pleaded guilty and was held to U. S. court under $1,500 bond.

Several gallons of whisky brought in by the officers were poured into the streets yesterday by Mr. Wood, following the hearing of the cases.

The reason reformers don't go to Heaven is because they are afraid the glitter of the golden wings will hurt their eyes.

Powell County Man

Gets Ten Years

A verdict of manslaughter, with the penalty fixed at 10 years in the state reformatory, was returned on Wednesday morning at 10:30 o'clock by the Clark county jury hearing the case of the commonwealth against Boyd Spencer. Spencer was charged with the slaying of Vernon Bryant. Both the defendant and the deceased were residents of Powell county, living near Old Furnace some distance from Stanton.

Bryant was shot during an altercation which followed religious services at Spencer's school house in Powell county on the night of August 16. He was taken to the Clark county hospital at Winchester that night and died early the following morning.

MERRY CHRISTMAS

As Christmas day falls on Sunday this year, the local postoffice will, according to the custom, have sufficient force on duty Sunday to deliver all parcels received on that day. By so doing no one will be disappointed.

Monday, December 26, will be observed as a holiday. City carriers will make their regular morning deliveries; rural carriers will also make their regular trips. The general delivery window and stamp window will be open from 8 to 10 a. m. only; no money order or registry business will be transacted. All patrons are urged to transact business during these hours as the office will be closed the balance of the day.

BAD DEBTS DEDUCTED FROM INCOME TAX

Bad debts may be deducted in computing income tax returns for 1921 under the new revenue act under a ruling issued by Commissioner Blair at Washington. "Where all the surrounding and attending circumstances indicate," Mr. Blair declared, "that the debt is worthless, either wholly or in part, the part thereof which is worthless and charged off or written down to a nominal amount on the books of the taxpayer shall be allowed as a deduction in computing net income."

THE BAPTIST CHURCH

The Baptist parsonage has been made new, the pantry has an abundant room and is ready for the pantry shower on December 27. The new pastor, Rev. O. Hamilton, and wife will reach here for Sunday, January 1, service, and on their arrival will find their furniture, which has just been received, up and the home ready for occupancy.

AT REST ROOMS IN LEXINGTON

The ladies of Fayette county have opened a rest room in the court house at Lexington, and Mrs. Fred W. Bassett, formerly of this city, has been placed in charge. Mrs. Bassett is one of the most capable women in the state for the position and will make an admirable hostess.

Miss Nola Morris Weds Winchester Man

Miss Nola Morris, of this city, and Walter G. Lawrence, of Winchester, were married in Lexington Monday by the Rev. B. C. Horton at the Methodist parsonage. The marriage was witnessed by the bride's brother, Hodge Marris, and her aunt, Mrs. R. F. Moore, and immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence left for Florida to spend the winter at Lake Worth. Mrs. Lawrence is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Owen F. Morris and is one of this city's loveliest and most attractive young girls. She is possessed of a sweet and sunny disposition that has endeared her to a wide circle of friends and admirers. Mr. Lawrence is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James T. Lawrence, of Winchester, and is an excellent young business man, standing in high esteem with the people of Clark county. In the spring Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence will return to Winchester to make their home.

TWO GREAT OLD MEN

Wild radiance of sunset shines through recent words of both Henry Watterson and George Clemenceau. Mr. Watterson writes an affecting letter of regret for non-attendance at an approaching reunion of Confederate veterans at Chattanooga, in which the mellow tones of resignation to Time's mastery are shot through with swift flashes of the old fire. The aged Tiger of France, admitting that the years have taught him lessons which he learned only under blows, desires most of all that everybody should think of him as a friend. "The brotherhood of all Frenchmen," which Clemenceau sets up as the formula best representing his own ideal, which all France should recognize and for which she should strive, is a more Catoic aspiration than—if not so tonic—as Marse Henry's vision of a Confederate reunion on the shining shore where he shall hear the bands playing "Dixie" and he shall clap hands again with the fellowship in which he has been so stalwart a figure. Possibly the thought of both old men's minds is much the same. But awaiting the signal, both look back upon their friends of past years, eager to catch the farewell salute give with recognition of faithful leadership and with human affection as well.—Arkansas Thomas Cat.

As we go to press, former Emperor Charles seems determined to remain crazy or to try again for his throne, which is about the same thing.

The biggest task ever took was when he tried to laugh trouble out of the world.

Lack of home life was deplored by Mrs. George Purnell, a leading club woman of Sacramento, Cal., who in a recent address before the women's council of that city said: "The modern girl is born in the hospital, receives most of her education either in the public or private school and seeks entertainment outside the home center. She is married in some church or parlors of the club house, spends the remainder of her life in an apartment house and, at the end, is buried from an undertaker's parlor."

Mr. Woodrow Wilson is quoted as saying, on Thanksgiving Day, that "another war will soon be upon us." Maybe so, but at least let us hope that, if it is our war, we will fight it on our own land. If it is to be a war of another nation, let's keep hands off, and our boys at home.

DISARM CHEMISTS—BUT HOW?

When a small boy first goes to school he learns his a b c's.

That is exactly what the great world statesmen are doing in Washington—they are discussing the mere a b c's of warfare, discussing what amounts to the simple elementaries of annihilation of life. The real question is:

Can the world disarm its chemists? How?

The recent general war was a terror as to the number of men it killed. But poison gas was then in its infancy even if 31 per cent of the American deaths were due to it. Just think this over: The greatest advance in the science of killing human beings has been made since 1918—since the year of the armistice. And the gasses invented by us Americans are the most deadly of all. For example, a single drop of poison developed by American chemists will kill on touch. Imagine spraying an army with it from an airplane.

General Fries, chief of our chemical war service, says that American mustard gas is about the least deadly of the gasses that our airplanes can use offensively. Yet, declares Fries, three minutes after his airplanes have commenced to drop mustard gas on town, the whole city will be screaming with pain and terror. Those not blinded are burned. No one could enter the city once the fumes are discharged from the bombs. Fires would start, nobody would be able to quench them, and the city and most of its inhabitants would be destroyed in a few hours. Disarm chemistry. But how?

CANDY! CANDY! CANDY!

We have just received 4,500 pounds of candy direct from the factory. Fine assortment to select from. Will be sold at a close price. Oranges, bananas, raisins and dates at a low price. Special prices to teachers for a treat. THE FAIR.

HOMEY PHILOSOPHY FOR 1921

When many of us were young, a common exclamation was, "I'm as happy as a king!" Who is so forlorn as to say that today? To be happy as a king in these days is to be unhappy indeed. What a change has come over the world in the matter of ruling and rulers! Never before was "the head that wears a crown" so uneasy.

The Kentuckian who broke out of jail, raised a crop so his family would have something to live on and then went back to prison must be a pretty good sort of hombre after all.—Macon Telegraph. A man's a man for a' that.

It usually costs money to get rid of the things you get for nothing.

The Benefit In Price Advertising

Most merchants doubtless are acquainted—at least theoretically—with the benefits of price advertising. Its power to bring business, to break through people's disinclination to spend money, to stir up things in dull times, to bring the people into their stores when you want them, is becoming a familiar story.

As merchants get better acquainted with price advertising and what it can do the more enthusiastic they become. And their faith is well founded.

But price advertising, as most other store policies, demands the most careful management. It is not a reckless, sensational, red ink cutting of prices. It is a cold, hard bid for business—a bid that is carefully figured and properly weighed.

Advertising with prices, advertising with bargains, advertising with stimulants involves the cutting of prices. When you offer a price-advertising item to your trade it means you are selling them something STRICTLY FOR ADVERTISING PURPOSES, AT LESS THAN COST, counting as part of cost the estimated expense of handling. It may be that one transaction will involve a smashing loss to you or you may be selling it at cost or you may get a certain percentage of profit. It is of the utmost necessity that a proper record be kept of all price advertising transactions so you may know where you are coming out.

Remember, unless price advertising increases your year's net profit it is a failure. And if you know at all times just where you stand you can conduct the things so as to keep the crowds coming and not pull the gross profit too low.

Draw a sharp line between your goods sold under value for advertising purposes and all your other merchandise.

Be sure, now, to get the point: NOT ALL GOODS SOLD AT COST

OR CLOSE TO COST SHOULD BE CHARGED TO PRICE ADVERTISING. Everybody has to sell some things on small margins—sell them in the everyday conduct of their business without getting any extra advertising. If you cut the price on an article because you happen to be struck on it that does not make it a price advertising affair. Or if on account of competition or other causes you sell some item regularly at a price that enables you to just about break even that is not price advertising either.

Charge to your price advertising only items that you deliberately cut the price on to draw people into the store.

Even at that you will make a profit on some of your price advertising sales. On others you will break even, and on others you will lose.

Set yourself a certain figure to cover your net loss in price advertising. The size of this figure depends on the kind of store you are operating. Leading authorities think an average variety store can safely spend for advertising purposes about three per cent on sales. This three per cent should be divided between printers' ink and price advertising in accordance with local conditions.

If you are on the main business street where the people pass every day you can depend more on your price advertising bargains displayed in your window to draw the people in.

In this event the bulk of your advertising can be of the price variety. If, on the other hand, your location is not so good or if you are in a smaller community where the people are not likely to see your windows regularly you should depend more on printers' ink advertising.

But price advertising has a place, or should have a place, in every store no matter whether the bulk of the publicity work is gained by window or by printed matter. Every piece of printed matter should advertise some special bargain. This is designed to have an effect in drawing people into the store as has the same article displayed in the window.

In case of a general store, dry goods, grocery, hardware or drug store the proportion of price advertising and printers' ink advertising should be decided on by the location, amount of money expended for advertising and local conditions in general. The amount of money this class of stores generally spends on advertising ranges from one and one-half to two per cent on sales.

To keep close account of your price advertising and to maintain a careful check on it so that the net loss will be well within your advertising apportionment is not at all difficult.

Get an inexpensive book and rule it off and keep your price advertising record in it week by week.

Always charge freight and cartage as part of the cost in your price advertising account. If you don't you will not be keeping an accurate check on what you are doing.

Also charge your average cost of doing business against the items you sell at cost or less than cost. Do not, however, charge the cost of doing business against the price advertising items you make a profit out of. To differentiate between these two classes and to now exactly when to charge the cost of doing business and when not to would involve some complicated bookkeeping. Therefore, it is suggested that a horizontal charge of 10 per cent for cost of doing business be made against all classes of price advertising items. This will average fair over a term of months.

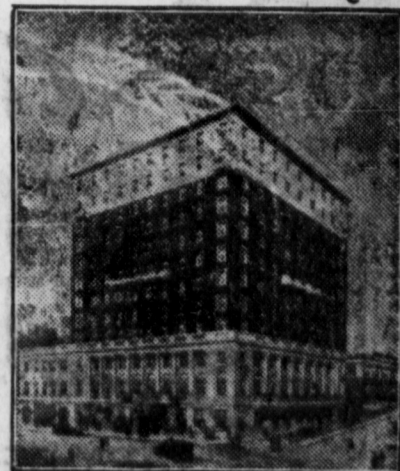

The loss on price advertising items represents the actual net loss after paying freight and making allowance for expense of doing business.

This net loss should be charged in your books to advertising expense. Some merchants think it should go in the profit and loss account. Not so. What you lose on price advertising actually represents money you have spent for advertising—spent to get the people into your store. Figuring thus it should be charged to expense and to nothing else.

A year's record of price advertising activities can be the most interesting feature of your store accounts. A record you keep this year will be an invaluable guide for you next year. It will help you solve at many a rough turn in the road the problem of how to bring in business when business apparently does not want to come.

After sizing up some of the husbands a man is inclined to believe that some women certainly hate to work for a living.

UNDERNOURISHED BAIRNS

A writer in a New York paper protests against the movement to have the school children of the city raise funds for the relief of poor, underfed children of France, on the grounds that many New York school children are also underfed.

There is a lot in this. In every city in this land, we care not which one you name, there are too many poor, ill-clothed and underfed children. In cities like New York and Chicago and Boston and Philadelphia—in fact, all of the 10 or 15 larger cities—there are many thousands of such children, pathetic examples of man's inhumanity to man; pathetically attending school; pitifully bearing up under their lot and saying nothing about their gnawing stomachs.

We are sending shiploads of food and clothing to Germany, Russia, Poland, Ireland and elsewhere, forgetting that we have tens of thousands of shivering, undernourished little ones in our own country.

Organized charity? Oh, yes, every city has its public charity organization, but it fails to find many of the needy in every city and the food, fuel and clothing it gives to the rest is nearly always of the meagerest sort.

Missionary work is fine—we do not criticize it at all, but we simply can't overlook our own sad little bairns.

No one can live vigorously while enjoying vicious thoughts, and no one can keep his life while he keeps his desire wrong.

ROWAN COUNTY NEWS

By S. S. Cassity

The examining trial of Harley Boyd, charged with the murder of Michael T. Dillon, at Rodburn, was called in the county court Monday. The commonwealth was represented by D. B. Caudill, county attorney; W. C. Hamilton, commonwealth's attorney; B. S. Wilson, of Ashland, and Ednor A. Marsh, of Rochester, N. Y., and the defense by Hogge & Clay and J. W. Riley, of the local bar. The commonwealth announced ready, whereupon the defense, failing to get a postponement of the trial, waived and Boyd was remanded to jail without bail. The circuit court room was crowded with spectators.

Nearly all of the new county officers have made their bonds and are ready to enter upon their duties on January 1. Judge Riley and County Clerk W. T. Caudill are old hands at the business, while all the rest are "freshmen," with the possible exception of Capt. T. W. Rose, county attorney, who served one term during the administration of Judge James Stewart, and is perhaps too old to be classed as new.

The funeral and burial of Michael T. Dillon took place Friday afternoon immediately after the arrival of his brother, Roscoe Dillon, from Texas. Prayer and song service was held at his late residence at Rodburn by Revs. Irvine and Lyons, after which the body was buried in the Lee cemetery. The very large crowd that attended the services was evidence of the high esteem in which he was held. Rowan county had no better or more useful citizen than Mr. Dillon and his death came as a great shock to our entire population.

Christmas trees have been coming into town by wagon loads. What puzzles me most is, what are they going to hang on them. The volume of currency circulating around here doesn't argue much in favor of seal-skin coats and diamonds. Speaking of Christmas trees reminds us of an answer our esteemed townsman, Col. T. B. Tippet, gave an inquisitive guy in Cincinnati some years ago when he was asked, "What do you raise up there in Rowan county?" "Hell and Christmas trees," was Tippet's answer.

As you see, there isn't much to write about from Rowan county this week. I could give you a column of catty personals, but your small circulation here doesn't justify such journalistic folly. I hope to get a larger list soon and then write some personals and society lollypop.

CARD OF THANKS

Rev. Crates desires to express his deep appreciation of all who have been solicitous in his behalf. He extends his thanks for every kindness in thought, word and act and wishes all a joyous Christmas and a very happy New Year.

Even old Satan can't please 'em all. Some will want a private fire with a gridiron fence around it.

One may be reasonably happy on a crust, but few of us go into ecstasies over it.

HOW EVERY MAN CAN HELP

How many of you men under whose eyes these words fall, know of a boy growing up who seems to have no ambition; who either goes dully through his days or is plainly as reckless of the things of tomorrow as he was of the things of yesterday?

Are you, who know such a boy, too busy, sir, to take a real interest in that growing young fellow? Don't you know that what that boy needs as much as anything else at his age in life is a friendly advice from somebody older! that he needs advice not given as mere advice but quite plainly from a sincere desire to be of service to him and to his future?

Do not feel that the boy's father and his mother are enough. God knows that they try to do their best by their boy, but the fact is father and mother have been advising and governing him all his life and the young fellow takes it from them as a matter of monotonous duty and dull home routine. When he is 16 to 18 or 19, he needs something more; he needs a rub from the world without, and if the rub is friendly, good-natured and manly, all the better for the boy.

Man, the touch you give that boy acquaintance may mean a good citizen a few years hence. Forget his surliness; forget even seeming stupidity—they may be masks that cover the yearning for an understanding heart.

But whatever you do, Mr. Busy Man take notice of your neighbor's growing boy when he is in your vicinity or when you meet him. A cheerful word and a smile will go a long way even if you haven't time to stop and talk to him as one man to another.

Give Furniture-

This a furniture Christmas—why should it not be? In selecting a gift your one aim is to get something that will really render a service to the recipient—can you think of anything that would give more real pleasure than something that could be used day after day for years? A piece of good furniture will give this service and the name of "Brower" is associated with only this type of merchandise. We invite you here to make your selections.

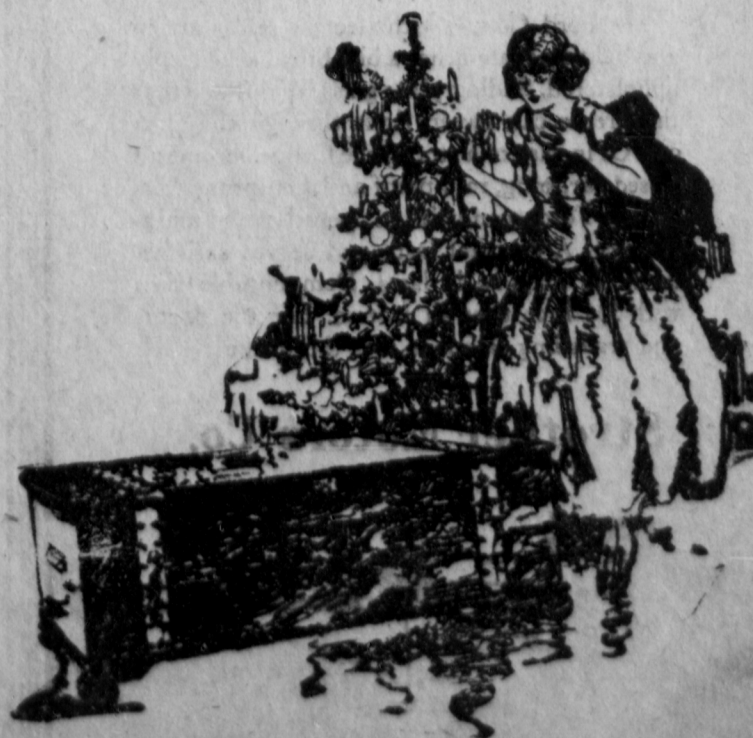

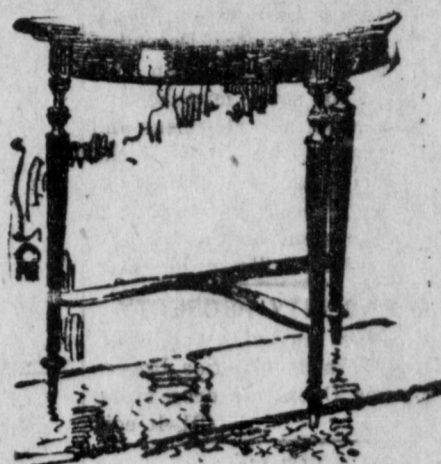

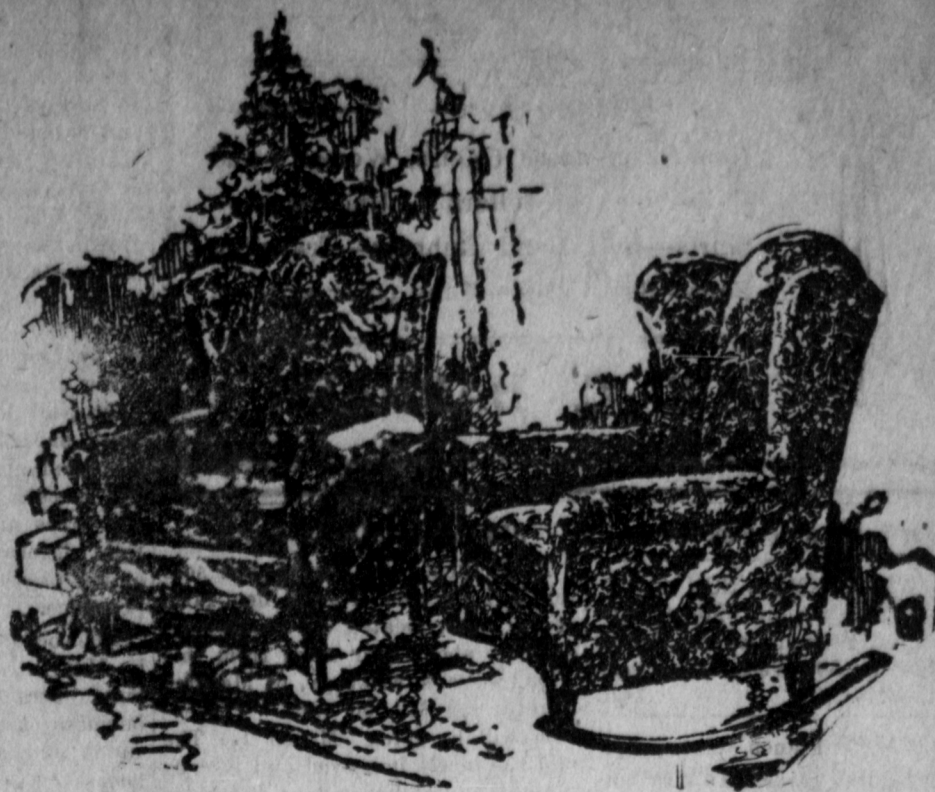

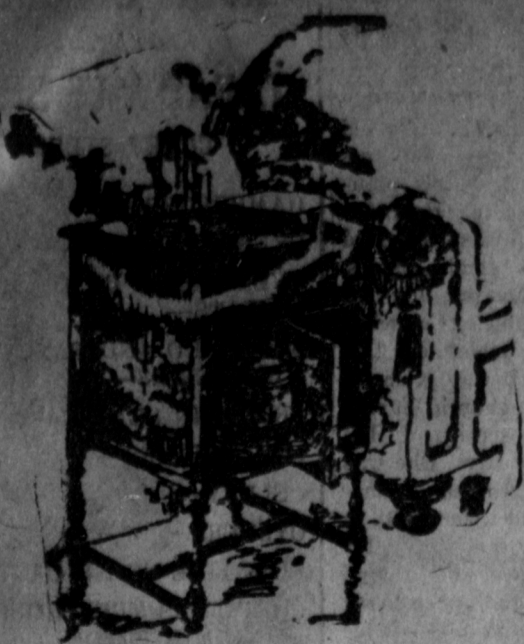

One of the many Christmas Gift Specials which we are offering for this week, is a Martha Washington Sewing Cabinet—blilt of Solid Mahogany, finished Brown—The three drawers and two large and deep pockets, give ample room for all sewing.

This Cabinet is priced for Christmas selling at $19.50.

You will find many other equally as good values in gift pieces here—Smoking Cabinets—Tea Wagons—Tilt Top Tables—Foot Stools—Easy Chairs—Spinnet Desks—Cedar Chests—Lamps—Mirrors—Davenport and numerous other items that space will not permit us to quote.

The "Brower" metal nameplate is now placed on every piece of furniture we sell. It is a guarantee of quality. Give your friends this protection.

Santa Claus Day Great Success

Santa Claus Day in Mt. Sterling yesterday, put on by Marvin N. Gay and assisted financially by the local business men, was a huge success in every way. The streets were literally filled with children as well as grown-ups when Santa Claus made his appearance in a large motor truck. He drove all over town scattering gifts and was closely followed by immense crowds of children eager to receive a present from Old Saint Nicholas. The event was a decided success from every point of view and aided business materially.
The streets were filled with Christmas trees and aided by the beautifully decorated show windows and stores presented quite a lovely appearance.

The occasion was made possible by Marvin N. Gay, one of the city's most energetic and hustling young business men, who solicited the funds and made all arrangements necessary to the success of the day, and we feel that in this connection too much praise cannot be given Mr. Gay and the entire business interests are deeply grateful for his interest and the untiring energy which he exercised in behalf of Santa Claus Day.

Following is a copy of a letter mailed by Mr. H. G. Hoffman, president of the Chamber of Commerce, congratulating him upon the success of the event:

December 21, 1921.
Marvin Gay, Esq., care Ragan-Gay
Motor Company, City.

My Dear Marvin: In behalf of the members of the Chamber of Commerce of Mt. Sterling and Montgomery county I wish to thank you for the Santa Claus Day you have just "pulled off" here in Mt. Sterling.

The painstaking efforts you gave to making this a success, as it was, we appreciate and with such a display of civic pride and unselfish contribution of time, as you have shown, on the part of only a few more of our citizens would do much to assist us in substantiating our claim, the claim we have always made, that Mt. Sterling is, not only just one of but THE BEST town in Kentucky.

Again, in behalf of this Chamber of Commerce and for the hundreds of "kiddies" you were able to make this a day never-to-be-forgotten," with the compliments of the season, I am, Yours very truly,
H. G. HOFFMAN,
President, Chamber of Commerce of Mt. Sterling and Montgomery County.

RURAL CARRIER EXAMINATION

The United States Civil Service Commission has announced an examination for the county of Montgomery to be held in Mt. Sterling on January 14, 1922, to fill the position of rural carrier at Jeffersonville and vacancies that may later occur on rural routes from other postoffices in this county. The salary of a rural carrier on a standard daily wagon route of 24 miles is $1,800 per annum, with an additional $30 per mile per annum for each mile or major fraction thereof in excess of 24 miles. The salary on motor routes ranges from $2,450 to $2,600 per annum, according to length. Separate examinations for motor routes and wagon routes are no longer held. Appointments to both positions will be made from the same register.
The examination will be open only to citizens who are actually domiciled in the territory of a postoffice in the county and who meet the other requirements set forth in form 1977. Both men and women, if qualified, may enter this examination, but appointing officers have the legal right to specify the sex desired in requesting certification of eligibles.
Women will not be considered for rural carrier appointment unless they are the widows of U. S. soldiers, sailors or marines, or the wives of U. S. soldiers, sailors or marines who are physically disqualified for examination by reason of injuries received in the line of military duty.
Form No. 1977 and application blanks may be obtained from the offices mentioned above or from the United States Civil Service Commission at Washington D. C. Applications should be forwarded to the commission at Washington D. C., at the earliest practicable date.

Christmas At the Methodist Church

Sunday School at 9:30 a. m. and it will be a great day because of the opening of the new Sunday School rooms which are now ready for occupancy. Effort is being made to the end that every member of the church be present next Sunday morning at the formal opening. The pastor expects to be there and hopes that everyone will come to remain for the Sunday morning worship at 10:45. He will preside. The congregation and community will be especially favored with an address by Mrs. Elizabeth Owens Middleton, of Kansas City, Mo, world's superintendent and national director of the Department of Scientific Temperance Instruction in public schools and colleges of the W. C. T. U. The only reason we are favored with Mrs. Middleton's presence in our community is that she is an aunt of Mrs. J. W. Crates, with whom she comes to spend a few days. The service will be permeated with the Christmas spirit and Christmas music will be rendered. Epworth League at 6:15 p. m. At night the Montgomery Commandery of the Knights Templar will attend in a body for their usual Christmas service. The sermon will be preached by Mr.
Crates. All are cordially invited to any and all of these services.

MRS. TURLEY DIES

Mrs. Mary Turley, widow of Amos Turley, died at her home at Camargo, this county, Tuesday night, after a long illness of a complication of diseases. She was 77 years old and is survived by two children, Mrs. Charles T. Wyatt, of this county, and Jesse Turley, of Harrodsburg. Mrs. Turley is also survived by several brothers and sisters, among them being Messrs. Joe A.
Trimble, Perry Trimble, Columbus
Trimble and Algin Trimble, of this county. Mrs. Turley was a member of the Christian church, having spent her life in the service of Him whom she loved devotedly. She was an old-fashioned woman, unassum-ing in her manner, but with a heart that beat in sympathy for those in trouble. She was a kind neighbor, a loving and sacrificing mother and sister, and one of the best women in the county. Funeral services were held at the residence this morning at 11 o'clock, and burial followed in Macpelah cemetery.

County High Xmas Entertainment

A large crowd attended the Christmas entertainment given at the County High School auditorium on Tuesday night. The program consisted of songs, choruses, instrumental music and a reading, and was excellently given and much enjoyed.
Santa Claus and Mrs. Santa were both there and the jolly old fellow and his good wife brought joy to the hearts of the little folks.
